

I am writing to petition the new FCC rules and regulations for Christian radio. This country is based on "God" whether people want to believe that or not. He is alive and living among us and is the only reason we are here on this Earth. Many people rely on the truths that Christian radio brings and would be devastated if that is taken away from them. Since we are listener supported, there shouldn't be anyone dictating what we can or can't say on radio. If people don't want to hear what we have to say, then they have the right to change the channel. There are several other radio stations out there that have fowl mouth, bad message songs playing every second for our little ears to hear. Are these stations good examples for our children to be listening to? We need to make sure we set good values upon them and KLOVE does just that. I don't understand why the government can't leave us alone. We aren't hurting anyone. We are living by what we know is the truth and if listening to a radio station that we fund is going to help us live a better more fulfilled life, then we should be able to do that without anyone bothering us. I strongly oppose any changes that are being considered for KLOVE and other Christian radio stations around the world.
